PRICE TWO CENTS

T. R. DEFENDANT IN $50,000 LIBEL SUIT OF BARNES

Case Opens in Supreme Court Today and Bitter Battle Is Expected to Come

LITIGANTS IGNORE EACH OTHER

Evidence Expected to Unveil Secret Political History of New York

SYRACUSE, N.Y., April 19.—Theodore Roosevelt, progressive leader and former president of the United States, and William Barnes, republican leader, today entered upon their political life and death battle.

Today's proceedings were devoted to securing a jury. Extraordinary care in sitting out jurors, because of big political issues enmeshed in the unique litigation, caused much delay in the final selections.

Barnes' lawyers vigorously attempted to submerge the big politics involved. They told the jury that Barnes' action was a personal defense of his good name and not a political war.

But all involved in the case realized that its result may change the political map of the nation and—also the careers of both principals.

Roosevelt's future course toward the republican party was involved. So was Barnes' political life, including his reputed senatorial aspirations, according to general belief.

Ignore Each Other
At adjacent tables, barely ten feet apart, Barnes and Roosevelt ignored each other completely. They exchanged no glances and either might have been a thousand miles away as far as the other was concerned.

Barnes asks the $50,000 reputation balm for being publicly named by the former president as an alleged partner with "Boss" Charley Murphy of Tammany Hall in an "alliance between crooked business and crooked politics."

Colonel Roosevelt's defense is justification. He purposes to prove his charges.

May Have Wide Result

Prominence of both principals in present and past political history and the overshadowing issues, with their possible result on future politics, made today's trial one of the most unique and politically pregnant in state and national fields.

Onondaga county courts were the neutral battlefield for the war of the political giants. Barnes filed suit at Albany, his home, but Roosevelt secured a change of venue here on the ground that he could not secure fair trial in Albany county.

Former friends but now bitter foes, Barnes and Roosevelt both promised merciless disclosures of past political machinations, in Albany county, New York state, and even the nation. Under subpoena and as spectators, the political hierarchy of political parties of state and nation assembled here today.

Republican leader in New York state for years, member of the state committee since 1892, its chairman for three years and national committeeman for New York state, Barnes was prepared to tear the veil from much secret political history.

Colonel Roosevelt, friend and co-worker of Barnes in highest reputation as New York's governor and later the nation's chief executive—promised revelations of Barnes' alleged "bossism" and alleged working agreement with the democrats.

Barnes counsel insisted today that the issue is not political but personal—an attempt to defame and injure his good name. Roosevelt's lawyers were equally as insistent that promised proof of Barnes' alleged co-partnership with "Boss" Murphy in shaping legislation and in other ways would absolve him of the charge of libel.

Friends of both declared that the question of money damages was subordinate. Both are wealthy. Barnes, publisher of the Albany Journal, is rated as a millionaire. A verdict of one cent or nominal damages in favor of either will spell popular victory, it is generally regarded.

Few Farmer Talesmen
There was little prospect today that a "farmers' jury" would be chosen. On the panel of 75 prospective jurors there were only nineteen farmers. There were 41 republicans, 14 democrats, 11 progressives, 3 prohibitionists and 6 independents.

In this respect Barnes was believed to have the advantage of a jury probably composed largely of republicans. Barnes' counsel indicated today that objection would be made to selection of any progressives as jurors.

THORPE STOREKEEPER FAILS

Louis F. Herzberg, proprietor of a general store at Thorpe, Clark county, Wis., today filed notice of voluntary bankruptcy with United States Court Commissioner Alfred Harrison. Herzberg names liabilities of $4,096.79 with assets of approximately $4,500. The assets consist of $2,000 worth of stock, $1,222.72 debts uncollected, and $128.15 cash. Herzberg is exempt from $788 of this amount under the law.

MISS ELLA SMITH CAN'T APPEAR HERE WITH MUSIC PEOPLE

Eminent Recitalist Is Called Away by Serious Illness of Her Father

TO SING MESSIAH TONIGHT

Whole City Is Invited; Prof. F. A. Cotton Makes the Welcoming Address

Called to Portage by the critical illness of her father, Miss Ella Smith, whose lecture recital on "French Music" was the 3:30 Wednesday number in the Wisconsin Music teachers combination, will be unable to appear. The hour will be given to the concert number which is the program promised for the same hour Tuesday, and upon that hour, Tuesday, there will be a general discussion of standardization.

The convention officials wish to emphasize the fact that they earnestly desire the attendance and participation of La Crosse citizens interested in music, at all discussions of standardization and other problems with which the convention is concerned.

The convention was opened at 3 o'clock this afternoon.

Professor Passet A. Cotton, president of the school, delivered a warm address of welcome to the delegate teachers and the scores of others attending. Professor Cotton bespoke the hospitality of La Crosse and the normal school to the teachers during their stay here.

Librarian Semman, president of the association, responded with a short address. The appointment of committees to act during the convention followed.

The feature of tonight's program will be singing of Handel's oratorio, "The Messiah," by a chorus of 250 voices and an orchestra of forty pieces.

U. S. "FLY BOBS" AFTER JOE HIRT

Enter an Office and Try to Make Young Woman Tell Bad Things About the Crooked Copper Editor

"Fly Bobs," supposed to be United States secret service men, are on the trail of Joe Hirt, editor of the "Crooked Copper."

In quest of something upon which to base action against Hirt, the men broke into an office room in which, it is supposed, they hoped to find records and papers of an incriminating nature.

One of the detectives went to Winona and there sought a young woman with whom Hirt had at one time kept company, and despite the fact that the girl is a person of unquestionable respectability, tried to make her admit that Hirt had taken her to La Crosse. The inference was that the facts would constitute a basis for proceedings under the Mann act.

Joe Hirt asked to verify the story Joe Hirt said it was true, but laughed at the attempt.

"They're trying to frame up something, but they can't," said Hirt. "I'll have something to say about it in the Crooked Copper, which comes out tomorrow. I know all about the game, who is back of it and the office they are working through. It's pretty lumpy, but it isn't worth bothering about."

REJECTED INDIAN KILLS WHITE GIRL

Lies in Wait Until the Girl Drives by with Man Who Ruus When He Shoots

URNS THE GUN UPON HIMSELF

Is Now Believed to Be Dying as Result of Two Bullet Wounds

SHAWANO, Wis., April 19.—James Wapoose, rejected Indian suitor, shot and killed Mary Dickson, 23, a white girl, Sunday night. He was today reported dying as the result of two self-inflicted bullet wounds.

The first intimation of the tragedy was received when Miss Dickson's body was brought home in a driverless carriage by a frightened pony. Searching parties were sent out and found Wapoose lying unconscious on the brush beside the road.

Wapoose paid court a few months ago to Miss Dickson, who was postmistress at Keshena. She refused to see him after learning that he is alleged to have been connected with a horse stealing affair. He went to Minneapolis and obtained employment as a moving picture actor.

Returning to Kenosha on Sunday the Indian learned that Miss Dickson was driving with a young man. He lay in wait in the brush and when the carriage passed, jumped out and demanded that the girl go with him. She refused and he shot her. Her escort fled and Wapoose then turned the gun on himself. He was taken to the government hospital on the reservation.

LEG IS BROKEN BY POLICE AUTO DRIVEN BY CHIEF

O. C. Olson Is Victim of Accident on Causeway; Car Was Proceeding Slowly

Chief of Police John B. Weber in the city's police automobile yesterday afternoon ran down and severely injured Ole C. Olson, a downtown cobbler.

Olson is now confined to his home with a broken leg. The wheels of the car passed over him.

The accident occurred when the chief and one of the patrolmen were returning from a run to North La Crosse. As they were crossing the causeway Olson is said to have cut across the street directly in front of the car. Both the chief and Patrolman Last, who was with him, declare the car was going slowly and the accident was unavoidable.

And His Honor Comes Out Today With Big Smile

Judge John Brindley, for seven years county judge of La Crosse and father of the compulsory education law in Wisconsin, observed his sixty-fifth birthday yesterday. He "sentenced" his friends who greeted him today to smoke big fat cigars.

Judge Brindley was born on a farm near Boscobel, Wis., April 18, 1850. He went to school four months every year and helped till his father's farm the rest of the time.

"When I was sixteen years old," said Judge Brindley, "I took examinations for teacher in the country school near Boscobel. I took them more for fun than for any other reason, and I never expected to pass."

COUNTY JUDGE BRINDLEY Educator and Barrister Who Celebrates Sixty-fifth Birthday

Several weeks afterwards while I was walking behind a plow in a corn field, a man drove up and asked me if I wanted to teach school. He offered me $50 a month and I took the job. I was the leanest, lankiest fellow you ever saw."

He Enters University
Judge Brindley continued working his father's farm, teaching school in the winter months for three years. At the same time he studied at night for the University of Wisconsin examinations, and in 1870 he entered the university.

He taught school in the first high school in Wisconsin, located at Lancaster, the county seat of Grant county. He was there two years. At the end of that time he took a position as instructor at the Boscobel high school.

An ardent supporter of the republican party, then overwhelmingly small as compared to the democrats, he was elected assemblyman from the northern Wisconsin district. He served for two years, and was the father of the bill which made education compulsory.

BANK SUIT CUTS M'ADOO'S ILLNESS

Secretary of the Treasury Shortens Convalescence Because of Riggs National Charges

HARMONY WANTED IN DEPARTMENT

Statements Conflict and There Is Said to Be Friction Between the Heads

WASHINGTON, April 19.—That the administration sees political danger in the Riggs National bank's suit against the treasury was evidenced today by reports that Secretary McAdoo of the treasury was expected to resume his official duties this week, after a long siege following an appendicitis operation and general breakdown.

It is believed McAdoo will first turn his attention to clearing up the undoubtedly adverse sentiment created by Attorney General Gregory's and Comptroller of the Currency Williams' conflicting utterances concerning the actual time Louis D. Brandeis was retained by the government.

There is a strong impression that McAdoo has shortened the period of his convalescence to get into the bank's fight against his associates.

Harmony Absent?
The belief is growing that apparent lack of harmony between Williams and Gregory has seriously embarrassed the administration and an effort, it is believed, will be made by McAdoo to reconcile it.

Another jarring note was heard by some in connection with the question as to who will lead the government's fight, when the case comes before the district supreme court on May 12. Assistant Attorney General Warren has hinted that it will be him. Friends of Louis Brandeis, however, said it was extremely doubtful if Brandeis, whose prominence as an attorney, is not even second to the attorney general's, will play "second fiddle" to anyone.

Lack of Co-ordination
The belief that a lack of co-ordination exists between Brandeis and the justice department's subordinate legal lights is further strengthened by the seeming conflict of authority over the origin of statements concerning the case. On the very day that Warren told newspapermen all statements would originate from his office, Brandeis announced the government's plan to ask for a continuance.

It is well known the president had interested himself deeply in the suit and there is little doubt it will be discussed again at tomorrow's cabinet meeting.

APPROVE CONFERENCE

WASHINGTON, April 19.—The Illinois Bankers' association telegraphed to Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo, endorsing the coming Pan-American financial conference. "Close relations," said the message, "undoubtedly will result in substantial benefit to the people of the American republics."

FRANK IS REFUSED NEW TRIAL BY THE U. S. SUPREME COURT

Principals In Frank Case

LEO M. FRANK—Superintendent of National Pencil factory, Atlanta, Ga. A Jew. Thirty-one years old. Born at Paris, Texas. Former home and relatives at Brooklyn, N. Y. Graduated from Cornell university. Father a traveling salesman. Moved to Atlanta about six years ago. Married an Atlanta Jewess two years afterward. Prominent in Jewish, social and charitable circles. President of Atlanta Society of B'Nai B'rith. JAMES CONLEY—Negro sweeper at National Pencil factory. Accuser of Frank. Confessed accessory in murder. Serving sentence one year in penitentiary after trial following Frank's conviction. Of short stature and "ginger cake" complexion. Declared by Frank's attorneys to be real murder.

MARY PHAGAN—Fourteen-year old daughter of Mr. J. W. Colman. Extremely pretty. Unusually well developed for her age. Popular and considered prettiest girl in Bellwood, Atlanta suburb, where she lived. OLD COUNCIL DIES NEW BODY STARTS WORK TOMORROW

Aldermen Who Have Served for Years Gather in Committee Today to Wind Up Affairs

BENTLEY TO TAKE OFFICE

Announcement of Committees for New Body to Be Made at Monday Organization Meet

Today is the last day in office for practically all candidates who were defeated in the last election. Tomorrow at noon, the newly elected mayor and city officials take office and the new city council will be officially seated.

Mayor-elect Bentley will succeed Mayor Sorensen. Judge Clinton W. Hunt will take the place of Judge Edward Cronon. There will be many aldermanic changes, but the aforementioned are the only ones in the city hall, where all other officials were re-elected, including Comptroller William Fries, Clerk E. H. Hoffman, Treasurer George W. Young and Tax Commissioner William J. Frisch.

Mayor Bentley will preside over the city council for the first time tomorrow when he calls the new council to order. He will then name his committees and make minor appointments although he has announced that the appointment of a city engineer will not be announced for a few days.

The old city council will conclude its business in a special session which will be called to order at 10 o'clock following which the organization meeting of the new aldermen will be held at noon.

Council committees today were in session all of the afternoon winding up the final work of the old council. Most of the important matters unfinished were carried over to the new council mayor.

AUSTRIAN TROOPS REPORTED MOVING ON SERBS AGAIN

Sofia Dispatch Says That Von Goltz Has Succeeded in Having Second Invasion Attempted

SOFIA, April 19.—Despite the need of troops to oppose the Russians who are endeavoring to force the Carpathian passage reports received today say that all train traffic on the Austrian-Hungarian state railway has again been stopped because of troop movements. This is declared to mean that Von Goltz has carried the day and that another attempt to capture Serbia is to commence. It is stated that among the troops headed for the Serbian frontier are 100,000 Germans.

NOW FACES DEATH UNLESS GEORGIA GOVERNOR ACTS

Habeas Corpus Action to Get New Trial Is Lost Before High Tribunal at Washington

FINDING IS HE HAD FAIR TRIAL

"Mob Domination" and the Claim He Did Not Enjoy Rights Not Recognized by the Bench

WASHINGTON, April 19.—The supreme court today refused to set aside conviction of Leo M. Frank, the young Atlanta, Ga., Jew of murdering Mary Phagan. Frank now faces death on the gallows unless Georgia's governor grants clemency. The court denied Frank's application for a habeas corpus writ upon which Frank sought a new trial.

Justice Holmes and Justice Hughes dissented in the court's opinion, Justice Holmes reading a dissenting opinion which in the main affirmed the contention of Frank's attorneys.

The principal points raised in support of Frank's application for release on habeas corpus as presented to the United States district court in Georgia and to the supreme court of the United States upon this appeal, are:

First, that the disorder in and about the court room during the trial and up to and at the rendition of the verdict amount to "mob domination," of not only the jury but the presiding judge, that this in effect brought a dissolution of the court and deprived it of jurisdiction to receive a verdict and pronounce sentence against the prisoner.

Secondly, that Frank's involuntary absence at the time the verdict was rendered deprived him of an essential part of the right of trial by jury and was a deprivation of the due process of law guaranteed by the fourteenth amendment, and that such absence could not be waived by Frank; and, thirdly, that the ground upon which the supreme court of Georgia overruled his objection based upon his absence when the verdict was rendered, namely, that this chief objection was waived because it was not raised at the first motion for a new trial, although the facts were then known to Frank and his counsel, was so far inconsistent with previous decisions of the same court that it was equivalent in effect to an ex post facto law.

Trial Approved
Summing up the court's opinion, Justice Pitney said: "To conclude, Frank's petition shows that, having been formally indicted for murder, he was placed on trial before a court of competent jurisdiction, with a jury lawfully constituted; he had a public trial, deliberately conducted, with the benefit of counsel for his defense; he was found guilty and sentenced pursuant to the laws of the state."

"In the opinion of this court he is not shown to have been deprived of any right guaranteed to him by the fourteenth amendment, or any other provision of the constitution or laws of the United States; on the contrary, he has been convicted and is now held in custody under due process of law, within the meaning of the constitution."

Climax of Sensational Trial
The high court's decree today was the final step of one of the south's most mysterious and sensational murder trials, which has gripped public interest for months. Three times was Frank sentenced to be hung. Atlanta and the entire state of Georgia has been roused to fever heat of excitement over the murder and Frank's subsequent legal fight for life.

The question before the supreme court today was whether Frank should be granted a hearing upon his writ of habeas corpus in the federal courts because of alleged denial of his rights under the constitution during his trial at Atlanta in August, 1913. Frank was, by the trial judge's orders, excluded from the court room when the jury brought in its verdict of guilty. Violent public feeling against Frank was the cause. The authorities feared a demonstration, even if the verdict was "guilty." They feared if the verdict was in his favor, Georgia militia were kept ready for a hurried call.

Absence Called Illegal
That exclusion of Frank from the court room was unconstitutional was alleged by his lawyers. They contended that, under the constitution, a defendant has the right to be in the court room continually during a trial and including rendition of the verdict.

This principal point advanced in Frank's behalf was most novel, having been first advanced by him.

The TRIBUNE'S Daily Short Story

An Antiquated Fisherman

BY CLARA INEZ TAYLOR

Copyright, 1915, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.

Rose Brent was broken in heart and pocketbook. As she said to her brother, with whom she lived, "I'm badly bent in purse and broken in spirit. The game's too fast for me here, noon."

Her brother looked thoughtful. He and his sister had boarded in adjoining hall rooms ever since they came to the metropolis nine years ago from the little fisher village where they were brought up. Ned had a clerkship that gave him his own bread and butter, and a little for his sister when she had none of her own.

Rose's salary in the office where she pounded a typewriter, not very expertly, had been cut to a mere pittance. She was in an exhausted condition at the end of the long winter, and she longed desperately for a sight of the old sandy beach and the tumbling waves of her native Connecticut town.

"If I were a man I'd go back and earn my living as fisherman. I'd get health and a few pennies and chase all the cobwebs from my poor brain, Ned," she said.

"That 'if' is as big as all your other 'ifs,' Rose," said Ned, not very sympathetically.

Rose's eyes sparkled for an instant as if with their last lingering bit of fire. "There shan't be an 'if,' she cried. "I'll do it, anyway. What have I to lose? And—oh, I shall gain so much."

Her brother thought she had taken leave of her senses when she unfolded her newly conceived plan—unfolding it to him even as it took root in her own mind.

"I'll write to you, but you must not write to me," she told Ned three days later when she had resigned from her badly paid position and was bidding her brother farewell at the train.

"All right, sis. You can't get into much trouble up in that motheaten town. I won't worry if you keep me posted. But—be careful of storms, sis. Remember our dad." Ned kissed her good-by in indifferent brotherly fashion and the train pulled out.

When Rose Brent appeared in her native village she arrived on foot from the neighboring town and she was dressed in the guise of an antiquated fisherman. Always clever at any sort of make-up, Rose had secured garments resembling those worn by any old native fisherman along the shore. She had successfully made a hump in her back, disguised herself completely by clever application of brown grease paints and a large drooping fisherman's hat.

"I shall have to pose as an oddity, however," she told herself as she arranged details of her stay in the town. "I dare not speak with folk nor look at them closely for fear they'll see under my hat or detect some buoyancy in my movements."

She got possession of an old fishing boat, got tackle, bait and everything necessary. She had been brought up among the old fishermen—they had been her playmates as a child. Therefore, fishing and fisher folk ways were a second nature to her. She knew the spots where the fish ran; she knew where to market her goods, and she was possessed of the spirit of the adventure. The big blue trousers and the enveloping yellow oilskin coat she wore were old but they fitted into her makeup wonderfully.

Day after day she came from the little room she had rented from an old woman whom she had known in her childhood days. The old woman was partly deaf, partly blind, partly senile, so Rose felt secure in boarding with her. Her sons had all been fishermen and had all been lost at sea. Now the eccentric little old woman lived alone and was glad to take in the strange fisherman who would pay her a few pennies for the room.

Summer boarders occasionally came to the beach where the fisherfolk held sway, and Rose always heard herself spoken of as "the antiquated fisherman." She pretended to be deaf and led an absolutely quiet life.

But in her bit of mirror in her room under the eaves Rose could see the color creeping into her cheeks when she removed her make-up and her grizzled transformation and stood in her own guise of a young woman of comely appearance. The only time she could laugh and act as she was beginning to feel was in the quiet of this tiny, bare room and yet she was happier than she had been for years.

One day as she sat in her old boat, which she had drawn up on the sand while she prepared her tackle for a day's fishing, she observed a moving picture man casting his eyes about for New England scenes of fisherfolk. At least, so she gathered from the way in which he seemed to be observing the types.

The camera man placed his camera, got his film ready and began to turn his crank on the beach scene. To give the action Rose deliberately shoved off her boat before it was ready and equipped. Her little hump-backed figure sat itself in the seat and Rose began to row out steadily, realizing all the time that the camera was focussed on her.

"To make it good I should capsize, but I can't on a sea like this and in this tub," she laughed to herself since no one was close enough to hear the chuckles from under her grizzled make-up.

"And—I like the look of that bookkeeper—Tom Martin, I think his name was—now that I see him here in nature's own country." Rose could see that the girl in her was waking up. For weeks she had had no sentiments except those fitted to inhabit the being of an old fisherman.

That night, for the first time since her arrival in the village, she fetched out her little bundle of garments. Rose's clothing and donned the garments. Then, the old lady below being either asleep or too deaf to hear, she found her way out to the moonlit beach and along to the hotel nearly a mile distant. She walked erect and stood erect and enjoyed the springing gait she had been unable to use for so long.

She knew that she was going in deliberate search of the bookkeeper—the camera man. And she wondered why not. It was perfectly natural for her to want to see some one from her former life.

She almost stumbled on him as she approached him. He was starting out for a stroll on the beach, since he knew no one with whom to associate.

"M-Miss Brent, is it possible?" he stammered, when Rose deliberately let the moon shine in her face as she passed him.

"And you, Mr. Martin. How odd!" Rose said, hypocritically.

"Odd, but delightful. Are you going somewhere, or do you want to walk with me?" he asked.

Rose walked with him for three hours and in the end she told him the whole story, even to the episode of the day while he was turning his camera on her.

"You—you're a trump, Miss Brent. And shall you continue long in this play?" he asked.

old fisherman were seen in sign conversation on the beach. But at night their words were not in sign language, unless Cupid's language is written that way.

Full Panel
The jurors filed into the jury box, and after all the twelve seats were filled there still remained one juror standing outside.

"If the court please," said the clerk, "they have made a mistake and sent us thirteen jurors instead of twelve. What do you want to do with this extra one?"

"What is your name?" asked the judge of the extra man.

"Joseph A. Braines," he replied.

"Mr. Clerk," said the judge, "take this man back to the jury commissioners and tell them we don't need him, as we already have here twelve men without Braines."—Tit-Bits.

In Clear Water You Can See the Fishes Around You.

Daddy's Bedtime Story—

Playing Hide
And Seek With The Fishes.

"So tonight I'll tell you children how to play hide and seek with the fishes," said daddy as Jack and Evelyn waited for their story.

"Oh, daddy, how funny!" cried Evelyn.

"Well, I told you once upon a time how every little boy and girl should learn to swim and how I would teach you when we all go to the lake this summer. And I told you, too, that after you learned to swim I would teach you to dive. So that is what I mean by playing hide and seek with the fishes, you see."

The children both laughed. "Well, I don't suppose the fishes would be very easy for us to catch, would they, daddy?" asked Jack.

"Oh, my, no!" said daddy. "Fishes swim very fast, you see, and they are also very slippery. But you can see them under the water if you happen to dive where they are. And I suppose they swim away as fast as they can, all the little shiners and the polliwogs and the bigger fishes, because a little boy or girl would look so strange to them under water."

"But before you can dive under the water and see the fishes you must master the first steps of diving. So I will tell you what they are."

"You must stand out in the water up to your chest, and you must grasp your little nose tight between thumb and finger and shut your little eyes and duck your head right under the water. And the water will roar in your ears just as if it were a great big waterfall tumbling over rocks, and it will scare you at first, and you will take your head out of that water about the quickest thing you ever did. But you will soon get used to the roaring when you see that it does not hurt you, and you will rather like it."

"So the next step is to put your face right under the water without first taking hold of your nose. The first time you do it you will snuff up some of the water and cough and splutter and make up your mind that you won't do it again. But it's very easy. All you must do is to learn to take in a long breath before you put your face under water and blow it out very slowly through the nose instead of drawing it in. And you must keep your mouth shut while you are doing this. And at first you will think you can never open your eyes under the water, but you will soon learn that this won't hurt you, and in clear water you can see the fishes around you."

"When you have learned these things you can walk out in the water up to your neck and dive in toward the shore, and then you can learn to jump off the bank into the water or off a diving board."

Earl W. Brandenburg of La Crosse a junior in the College of Letters and Science at the University of Wisconsin, was defeated by Ray Albright of Milwaukee for secretary of the Y. M. C. A. council at the election held recently. The vote was not announced. Mr. Brandenburg has been admitted to membership in the Edwin Booth Dramatic club.

Laugh at the Unusual.

The unusual provokes laughter. Funny pictures, caricatures, cartoons and comic illustrations employ various devices in their technique, all based on one fundamental principle—the deviation from the customary, the habitual, the usual. New untried ideas, new inventions and new reforms are always greeted with ridicule and sardonic laughter.

SOAP IS BAD FOR THE HAIR

Soap should be used very sparingly, if at all, if you want to keep your hair looking its best. Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle, and ruins it.

The best thing for steady use is just ordinary mulkified coconut oil (which is pure and greaseless), is cheaper and gether than soap or anything else you can use.

One or two teaspoonfuls will cleanse the hair and scalp thoroughly. Simply moisten the hair with water and rub it in. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather, which rinses out easily, removing every particle of dust, dirt, dandruff and excessive oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves the scalp soft, and the hair fine and silky, bright, lustrous, fluffy and easy to manage.

You can get mulkified coconut oil at any pharmacy, and a few ounces will supply every member of the family for months.

SAW LINCOLN SHOT ON FIFTH WEDDING DAY AT WASHINGTON

Aged Sparta Couple Celebrate Fifty-fifth Wedding Anniversary with a Large Number of Friends

SPARTA, Wis., April 19.—(Special.)—With a number of friends and relatives present, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas N. Jones celebrated their fifty-fifth wedding anniversary on Friday.

Mr. Jones was a cavalryman stationed at Washington, D. C., when President Lincoln was assassinated by Booth. The shooting occurred on his fifth wedding anniversary. Following the assassination Mr. Jones was placed on picket duty which compelled him to serve without sleep for three days and nights. Mr. Jones tells how quickly the news of the shooting was flashed out and how rapidly a chain guard was thrown about the city.

Mr. and Mrs. Jones were married near Portage, April 15, 1860. They resided there until the close of the Civil war when they moved to Monroe county, settling on a farm. In 1889 they came to Sparta, where they have resided continuously.

Although Mr. Jones is active, Mrs. Jones is confined to a chair, having lost the use of one limb from a paralytic stroke about seven years ago.

Among those present were Miss Edna Jones, Wynne and Fred Jones, Mr. and Mrs. George Perry, Mrs. Fred Jones, Mr. and Mrs. Cyrus Perry, Miss Orra Perry, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Sherwin, Miss Edith Sherwin, Roy Sherwin, Will Sherwin, Mrs. Conger, J. Merritt Freeman, Lynn Jones, Miss Inez Freeman and Oden Perry.

Names Confused in Story.

In an item under a headline "Sparta, Wis.," in a recent issue of The Tribune, the names of Earl Akenhead, Madison, and Benjamin Shlimovitz are confused through a misplacing of the typelines. Shlimovitz was charged with receiving stolen goods, and Akenhead's name was mentioned in a personal as visiting the home of his son, James Biddeon.

FORMER GOVERNOR DAVIDSON'S NEPHEW STARTS BUSINESS

LANESBORO, Minn., April 19.—(Special.)—George Davidson, a nephew of former Governor George O. Davidson, has opened a department store here.

IN STERLING LIVES A GIRL

Who Suffered As Many Girls Do—Tells How She Found Relief.

Sterling, Conn.—"I am a girl of 22 years and I used to faint away every month and was very weak. I was also bothered a lot with female weakness. I read your little book 'Wisdom for Women,' and I saw how others had been helped by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and decided to try it, and it has made me feel like a new girl and I am now relieved of all these troubles. I hope all young girls will get relief as I have. I never felt better in my life."—Mrs. JOHN TETREAU, Box 116, Sterling, Conn.

Massena, N. Y.—"I have taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I highly recommend it. If anyone wants to write to me I will gladly tell her about my case. I was certainly in a bad condition as my blood was all turning to water. I had pimples on my face and a bad color, and for five years I had been troubled with suppression. The doctors called it 'Anemia and Exhaustion,' and said I was all run down, but Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound brought me out all right."—Miss LAVISA MYRES, Box 74, Massena, N. Y.

Young Girls, Heed This Advice.

Girls who are troubled with painful or irregular periods, headache, dizziness, dragging-down sensations, fainting spells or indigestion, should immediately seek restoration to health by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

SHATTUCK AT A "BARGAIN"

Arthur Shattuck, the world over, gets the same prices and draws audiences of the class and size that greet Paderewski and Rudolph Ganz. Because he is a product of Wisconsin, and as a courtesy to the Music Teachers' association of his home state, this world-famed virtuoso will appear here Tuesday evening in a recital at fifty cents.

This presents an opportunity—a bargain, if the term does not insult art—which may be enjoyed only by citizens of La Crosse and those in attendance upon the convention. It should attract an audience equal to the capacity of any theater in the city. Those who do not prefer regret to pleasant recollections of a delightful evening should secure their tickets at once.

NELSON W. ALDRICH

Nelson W. Aldrich was the most notable figure in the political generation that is closing. He was the leader of the republican party in the senate while that party was continuously in control for sixteen years. That he gained this position by ability and understanding of the forces which controlled in his time, no one can doubt who reflects that Rhode Island is not from size or situation an important state in party politics. He was as much a personal leader in the politics of his time as was Webster or Clay in an earlier day.

In most minds, Aldrich stands as the supreme embodiment of the big interests in the government of a nation. Long before his name was attached to the tariff measure of 1909, he had been called the "boss of the United States." He was the head and front in congress of the government by special privilege when special privilege reached its greatest power. As Hanna's name must be forever associated with the organization of the trusts, so will the name of Aldrich be connected with the rule of interests. Not that he was any more an advocate of this kind of government than scores of his associates, or any more to be condemned than hundreds who acquiesced in these things. He was the ablest of these, and they accepted his leadership. Nor will the future historian and biographer fail to note that these men must be given some credit for believing in the things they practiced. Destructive as these things must be of democracy, they were in the air the last generation breathed.

Every generation must have its leaders. It was Mr. Aldrich's achievement to be a peculiarly able commander of a particularly bad school of politics. So able, indeed, that he himself foresaw that his days were numbered.—The Milwaukee Journal.

PARTICIPATE IN THE TEACHERS' WEEK

La Crosse is honored in having been selected as the convention city for what should prove the most important meeting of the State Music Teachers' association. From all Wisconsin the teachers meet here today to lay deep and strong the foundation for standardization of the profession of music teaching.

What would have been the fate of our public schools had there been no standardization of teachers? Without it guess and hazard would have ruled, and efficiency would have been a mere chance with the negative possibilities predominating. "Chaos" is the word.

For an acceptable average of efficiency, for higher ideals and in general for the achievements of the objective of the profession, standardization will do as much for music as it has done for other branches of learning and culture.

If the music teachers, musicians, club women—all La Crosse people who are interested in good music—will accept the cordial invitation of the convention officials to attend, not only the entertainments, but the meetings at which the great central problem is being discussed, and to participate in the discussion, they will contribute to the success of a most important movement.

The TRIBUNE is spokesman for the citizens of La Crosse in today welcoming the music teachers to this city, and no better evidence of our cordiality and hospitality can be given than to freely join in the activities of a pleasant and profitable week.

TRANSPORT'S CREW DROWNS

LONDON, April 19.—The admiralty announced Saturday night that a hundred members of the crew of the transport Manitou had been drowned after a battle in the Aegean sea.

Hunches

"Outside of that I'm all right," said the rat, as he avoided the trap. The large folding bed transforms into a dining table. But with bread going up like an express elevator, please go away and let me sleep.

No efficient army would ever try to capture Russia, because so many unnecessary steps would have to be taken. When the champion jockey grew too fat to ride, his worshippers gave him a diamond horseshoe with these words, "Your gain is our eternal loss."—C. L. Edson in Judge.

Gauging Time.

"Have you no clock in your bedroom?" inquired Mrs. Lexington.

"No," replied Mrs. Amsterdam. "I do not need one. I always know how late it is. If my husband comes in noisily from his club I know it is nearly half past 10 or 11. If he is very amiable and says 'Good night, darling,' it is between 12 and 1. If he takes off his shoes downstairs and creeps into bed without turning on the light it is at least 3 o'clock."—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

Quips and Cranks and Wanton Wiles

A Spring Poem

The song of spring is throbbing on the hills,
The pipes of Pan are trilling their delight;
I wish I didn't have these awful chills,
It means another quinine pill to-night.

Again the verdant canopy o'erspread
Invites to rapture and to bliss remote.
Haphew! My head is weighted down with lead!
This comes from talking walks without a coat!

The feathered songsters plight their troth and spend
Their little souls in joyous flights and swerves,
Another drizzle! Won't it ever end?
This beastly weather gets upon my nerves.

Ecstatic sunlight floods the smiling plain
And over all its mild effulgence wraps;
Tonight the weather prophecy is rain;
Tomorrow, cloudy, colder, rain perhaps!

Who would not tune his lyre to meet the spring?
Who would not sound for love a roundelay?
That heater is a most uncertain thing,
Why can't we have a little steam today?

Who would not chant his glee when life is sweet?
Who would not sing when all the world is new?
At last, haphew, my lyric is complete;
Haphew—at last—haphew—I'm done—haphew!

Lights

Mr. Picklelilly came home from his club one morning about 5 o'clock. He entered his happy home, crept up the stairs softly, so as not to awaken his spouse, then felt for the switch to turn on the electric light. He could not find it, and in the darkness stumbled over a chair.

"What's that?" came a voice from the bed.

"Where in the deuce are the lights in this house?" snarled Picklelilly, trying to put a bold face on the matter.

"Those griefs are old and healed, Stephen. They must not trouble you. I have a name and a position. It does not matter that they ring less grandly. They are my own, and I am a little proud of them. Can you understand that, I wonder?"

He made no answer. His head was bowed upon her hands, and she waited patiently, her deep eyes fixed on the shadows as they crept up along the walls.

"Stephen!" she said at last. He started like a man waking from a dream. He lifted his face to hers, and an overpowering pity broke through her stern composure. "Stephen, what is it? You are conjuring up a past that is mine—not yours. What was I to you? A pawn in your great game—an episode, not even a folly. Is it remote that haunts you? I have tried to show you that you have done nothing—nothing that I could not repair. I owe you my knowledge of myself and my own strength—some hours' illusion, a broader outlook, a deeper understanding of other women's failures. Let that suffice between us—"

"I can not." He sprang up with a wild gesture of protest. "It is not remote that haunts me. I am not the man to feel remorse. Yes, you were a pawn, Gabrielle, a weak, white little thing that I held in the hollow of my hand. I half loved and half despised you as a man does a woman who has sacrificed everything to him. Then—that night when I came back and found that you knew me for what I was—a liar, a cheat, a common spy, to be bought and sold by every man—and had left me on the very eve of my atonement to you—then I knew my own madness. Your weakness had been strength—my power over you was only your love—and when that was broken you went from me—free and strong, as high above my arrogance as the stars are above the earth. From that hour I wanted you."

He was kneeling before her again, his face pressed against her knees, his breath torn from him in terrible jarring sobs. She bent down as a mother might bend down over a broken-hearted child.

"It's too late, Stephen," she said, "too late. I have buried my dead, dear. I can not call the dead to life."

"Leave me at last the hope—atonement—"

"There is no hope because there is nothing to atone. I made you what you were to me even as you made me what I was to you. We neither of us have fallen through the other—no one ever really does. We are free and we stand alone. We must go our ways, Stephen."

He rose slowly. In the twilight he faced her with weary hopeless resignation.

"I won't plead, Gabrielle. I know you better." Then suddenly he took a step forward. "Gabrielle, there are tears on your cheeks! You are crying—for whom?"

She made no answer. She gave him her hand, and he took it and carried it to his lips, reverently now, without passion, as a man does who receives a sacrament.

For a long minute there was no movement in the old courtyard save for the rising tide of shadows beneath the arches, no sound but the tinkling voice of the fountain, grown clearer, more melodious in the hush of the evening. Stephen Lowe stood up.

"My saint! my saint!" he said almost with triumph. "If you are, God must be. Pray for me!"

"I pray for you!" she answered simply.

He turned and stumbled blindly into the darkness.

CHAPTER XIII. The Rising Tide.

"Merde!"

The man on the narrow camp-bed rolled over, cursing. A swarm of flies had begun a maddening insane pursuit round his head, and he beat at them blindly, his arms whirling in impotent fury. Then with a sigh he sat up and looked about him. There were twenty beds in the long room. On each bed save one a man lay prostrate, motionless, his limbs extended in limp exhaustion, his mouth open as though he had been cut short in a half-uttered exclamation. There was no sound. The appalling, sickening heat had beaten down complaint to a dull acquiescence. Yet no man in that twenty slept. Their eyes were wide open and fixed in bloodshot intentness straight in front of them—on the ceiling, on the white walls, on their neighbors, according to their attitude—and behind the intentness there was black monotonous brooding.

The man who had sat up began to laugh. It was a laugh which would have been infectious if it had not been terrible. It rattled on in his dry throat until at last it ended in a gibbering, idiotic murmur. Then he drew his knees up to his chin and grimaced at the deadly sun pouring in between the shutters. His two neighbors stirred and looked at each other. The younger man nodded.

"He's gone," he said laconically in broken French.

"Who's to wonder?" was the reply. "Twenty days' cellulite in this heat, My God!"

There was silence for a moment. Only the low voice went on ceaselessly, like the meaningless chatter of a machine. The two men listened. The disjointed words and the broken phrases seemed to convey some new ideas to them, for the blankness had gone out of their faces, and presently the younger man rose and crept softly over to his companion's bed.

"Have you heard?" he whispered.

"What?"

"Half the regiment goes south next week—our company with it—right down to the outposts where the road breaks off. I heard it from Gotz. The devil goes with us. We're to be kept down there until the road reaches Abud-Adad. You know what that means."

The Spaniard nodded. His black eyes wandered back to the crouching figure on the neighboring bed.

"That," he said significantly.

"But you have some scheme, some idea?"

Their faces were almost touching. A smothered sentiment that was joyous in its lust and hatred vibrated in their low voices.

"Half the regiment goes south. I knew that months ago. It happens regularly. Right down south, where there isn't a white man. Think of it. Four hundred desperate fellows with ammunition, provisions, that devil and a handful of officers. Don't you see? A dozen well-aimed bullets—all over. The road clear—clear to Morocco, to liberty, home. No, no, not for us, but for the others; and then to see their blood, to pay back—only a little bit. My God, it will be worth while." He ground his teeth together in a kind of ecstasy, and his hand gripped his companion's arm.

Suddenly the door opened and the two men sprang up, only to relapse again as the newcomer was recognized. The Spaniard touched his companion on the shoulder.

"The Englishman!" he whispered. "Shot last night. They tore the bullet out of his shoulder this morning. Dolenda, who serves in the lazaretto told me. And he never as much as groaned."

The other nodded.

"A man!" he said.

ARRANGEMENTS FOR HIGH SCHOOL BALL ARE MADE

Even Graduating Class Will Have to Pay; May 14
Is the Date
Fixed

Junior prom arrangements are already being made for the graduating classes of the high school. The dance this year is to be a much better prom than in previous years and at the same time greater democracy will be insured by the arrangements. May 14th has been selected as the best night for the affair as in previous years all commencement activities have been crowded into the same week, and many have not attended on account of there being too much to attend.

Contrary to general precedents an admission fee will be charged to everyone this year, seniors included. Last year when the graduating class was admitted free the management went in indebtedness to the amount of twenty-five dollars. No such mistake will be allowed this year. The committees in charge follow:

Refreshments—Miss Cora Desmond, Alfred Gunderson.
Decorations—Mr. C. D. Brower, Leroy Yerly, Earl Hirschheimer, Walter Schall, Glen Heggy, Mary Drummond, Miss Margaret Eberle, Aveline Fuller, Lila Spellum.
Music—Miss Hazel Josten, Walter Schall.
Program—Leroy Yerly, Glen Heggy.

VOELKER COMPANY DELIGHTS PATRONS

New Bill at Majestic Makes Astonishing Appeal to Music Lovers of La
Crosse

What is perhaps the most genuinely worth while act that has appeared at the Majestic theater this season is "Music Hath Charms," which ushers in the final week of vaudeville at the local house this week. It is a charming display of finished musical ability of highest type, strung upon a plot which serves to hold the whole together in most unique form.

There are six characters in the comedietta. All of them are splendid musicians individually, and they work well together. The most enjoyable of their entire offering, perhaps, was the work of Mr. Voelker on his famous Bergonzi violin. It is an instrument of large and rich tone, and responds beautifully to his deft handling. For an encore, Mr. Voelker played the ever-pleasing Barcarolle from the "Tales of Hoffmann," and the entire company sang with him in delightful effect. Mrs. Voelker's accompaniments on the piano gave a splendid background to the musical numbers.

There are other recommendations for "Music Hath Charms" beside its pre-eminent musical superiority. It is beautifully staged and costumed—the scenery is from the Dodge and Castle studio of New York, executed from designs by Mrs. Voelker, and the gowns are by Muldon.

The Majestic bill is filled out with four other acts of excellent vaudeville. Knight and Moore have a "comedy flirtatious" that is excellent foolishness; Gordon and Day present a cycling act full of rich comedy in which a charming young woman is a feature; Howard and Simon dance sailor's hornpipes, Scotch and Irish dances and other characteristic steps with much grace; and the Mayos present an unusual trapeze act.

MISS ALMA BECK FAMOUS CONTRALTO

Soloist with Normal Chorus
This Evening Sang "Messiah"
at Cincinnati
May Festival

One of the finest choruses, perhaps the finest in this country, is the Cincinnati May Festival Chorus of Cincinnati, and one of the greatest marks of distinction that can be conferred upon any singer is to appear with this chorus as a soloist. Miss Alma Beck, the contralto soloist with the Normal Choral society in the "Messiah" this evening, has been so honored. Miss Beck, together with Florence Hinkle, Evan Williams and Clarence Whitehill, was one of the vocal quartet which, together with the May Festival chorus, gave the "Messiah" in Cincinnati's historic Music Hall, December 26, 1912. Dr. Kunewald conducting and the Cincinnati orchestra furnishing the accompaniment. This was in the first year of Miss Beck's career and the Cincinnati Enquirer in speaking of the event makes following comment: "Miss Alma Beck, the talented Cincinnati contralto, gave evidence of a glorious voice which she employed most charmingly. She has every indication of a great future, for there are few contraltos of such genuine timber as she possesses." The Times-Star referring to the same concert says: "Miss Beck, contralto, held her own admirably. Her singing was exceedingly admired and greatly enjoyed."

Last year, at Knoxville, Tenn., where she was engaged for the May Festival, her singing of the "Messiah," among other things, was again the subject of great praise. The leading paper, The Daily Journal and Tribune, writes of her work: "It is with utmost pleasure that one recalls the singing of Alma Beck. Heard for the first time in this city she took Knoxville by storm. Miss Beck has a voice of unusual range and her technique is remarkable."

STUDY AND EXERCISE

Study does not hurt a child when the study time is taken from the that should be spent in out-of-door exercise.

Overstudy and lack of exercise make thin, bloodless children. It is a combination that provokes St. Vitus' dance.

If your child is thin and pale, be less, inattentive, has a tickle in the throat and is unable to stand still or still, you must remember that health is even more important than education.

See to it at once that the patient does not overstudy, gets at least two hours out-of-door exercise every day, sleeps ten hours out of every twenty-four and takes a non-alcoholic tonic like Dr. Williams' Pink Pills until the color returns to cheeks and lips and the appetite becomes normal.

For growing children who become pale and thin Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are not only safe but in the great majority of cases they are the very best tonic that can be taken. They build up the blood and strengthen the nerves and assist nature in keeping pace with rapid growth.

The Dr. Williams' Medicine Company, Schenectady, N. Y., will send you two books on the blood and nerves if you mention this paper. Your child is very young ask for the booklet "The Care of the Baby." Your own druggist sells Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

HEAD OF REUTER AGENCY SUICIDE

Grief Over Death of Wife
Believed Cause of Act of Director of European News Agency

REIGATE, Surrey, Eng., April 19.—Baron Auguste Julius Clemens Herbert De Reuter, managing director of Reuter's Telegram company, committed suicide here today.

Grief over the death of his wife, who died last week, is believed to have been the reason.

Although the announcement of the suicide was made public today, an official statement issued later said that the Baron killed himself yesterday.

It stated that his body was found in his residence with a discharged revolver alongside and that "there was little or no doubt" that he had ended his own life. He was greatly attached to his wife and has been very melancholy since her sudden death.

Baron De Reuter was born March 10, 1852, and succeeded his father as head of the Reuter Telegram company in 1899. He was educated at Harrow and in Paris universities.

The Princess of Patches will be the offering again tonight.

LYMAN H. HOWE
Big guns that hurl 1400 pounds of projectiles 25 miles from the new super-dreadnaughts of our new U. S. navy constitute one of the interesting films to be presented at the La Crosse Theater Friday and Saturday, with a matinee on Saturday, by Lyman H. Howe. They were photographed by Howe's camera men by the authority of Secretary of the Navy, Mr. Josephus Daniels. The battleships of our squadrons even a few short years ago were mere pigmies, compared to our present day prowlers of the deep. These 14 inch guns are what our nation under stress of war would have to pin its faith to. It is true that the results of the tests shown in this film are kept strictly secret in departmental archives, but naval experts say they surpass all expectations. Confidence in their terrific power is not misplaced. The series also shows 12-inch guns in action. Even these are so powerful that a projectile weighing 980 pounds will penetrate over two inches of armor plate at a distance of over two miles away. Another phase of our naval armament is disclosed by long range views of new torpedoes—about 20 feet long, 18 inches wide and costing $2,500 apiece. They, too, can be depended upon for absolute accuracy for over two miles. The big guns can be fired every two minutes, but even the largest battleship cannot carry more than 80 or 100 rounds for each gun.

LIGHTNING FIRES

GREEN BAY, Wis., April 19.—Fire started by lightning caused a loss of $15,000 early today when the Barkhausen oil warehouses here were destroyed. Firemen worked hard to save adjoining property. Several 1,000 gallon tanks exploded, breaking windows in the section near the fire. Many tank cars near the warehouses were set on fire. The large Northwestern depot, which is less than a hundred feet away from the warehouses, was saved after a hard fight.

QUICKLY RELIEVES Without Distress

The congestion of waste and refuse from the stomach, fermenting in the bowels, generates poisonous gases that occasion distress and invite serious illness. Health and comfort demand that this congestion be speedily relieved and the foul mass expelled.

The well-founded objection most people have to the violence of cathartic and purgative agents is overcome by using the combination of simple laxative herbs with pepsin that is sold in drug stores under the name of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. A dose at night brings relief next morning, without discomfort or inconvenience. A free trial bottle can be obtained by writing to Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 452 Washington St., Monticello, Ills.

ORCHESTRA PROVES BETTER THAN EVER

Minneapolis Symphony Orchestra's Concert at the Normal School Is Excellent

(BY ISADOR TIPPIMANN)

The Minneapolis Symphony orchestra, Emil Oberhoffer conductor, appeared in two concerts Saturday afternoon and evening at the Normal hall. Both programs contained music of superb quality. The vocal soloist of the afternoon was the Swedish tenor, Albert Lindquist, whose beautiful voice shone brightly in an aria from Puccini's "La Boheme."

He granted a pleasing encore number. The other soloist was the popular harpist, Mr. Henry J. Williams. He received much applause and responded with an additional number.

The evening program was made up of choice orchestral gems and the playing of each of these gems was excellent. The writer is of the opinion that the tone of the strings in the orchestra has grown in richness, sonority and crispness, that the brass and woodwind are more pliant and very musical, in short, that the great orchestra is now better than ever.

The fifth symphony of Tschakowsky is such a wonderful musical creation, that an exhaustive analysis from the different viewpoints possible, would cover more than a column. Its emotional contents would seem inexhaustible to anyone who would attempt a critical dissection of the work. The symphony as presented in Mr. Oberhoffer's conception was highly interesting from start to finish. The response of the orchestra was flawless. This symphony and the "Andante and Variations" from a Beethoven string quartet were in the opinion of the commentator the high water marks of the evening's music. When all the string instruments of the great orchestra raised their voices in the sublime theme conceived by the master of masters—Beethoven—it seemed as if the life-giving and life-maintaining sun was breaking through the clouds to kiss the earth and make it free from the bondage of sin, shame and corruption. The audience harkened spellbound to the utterances of the mighty musical genius and it seemed as if the spirit of the great master was hovering over the enchanted people. This and the Tschakowsky Symphony as played by the Minneapolis artists, may well be described as an hour of worship at the altar of music.

The Romance from Dolmays Suite op. 19, and the "Caucasian Sketches" by the Russian composer, Ippolitow-Iwanow in which latter number Karl Scheurer and Gustav Boehle distinguished themselves as artists on the viola and English Horn respectively, and deserve for the perfect technical and poetical perfection with which they were given a much more extended consideration than they can receive in these lines.

Mr. Cornelius Van Vleet played Goltzmann's Concerto for violin and cello in a minor and it is needless to say that his technique and interpretation were faultless. As an encore he played a charming minuet by Danne with harp accompaniment.

The other soloist of the evening was Mme. Marie Sundelius, who sang with a well trained voice of rich quality two arias from "Carmen" and "Louise," for which she received the grateful plaudits of the audience.

The Minneapolis orchestra went from here to Mason City, Iowa, and touches on its tour, which will last until June, different cities in Wisconsin, Minnesota, Illinois, Michigan, Iowa, Nebraska, Kansas, Missouri, Indiana, North and South Dakota and Oklahoma.

THAT TIRED FEELING

Relieved by Hood's Sarsaparilla, Which Renovates the Blood

That tired feeling that comes to you in the spring, year after year, is a sign that your blood lacks vitality, just as pimples, boils and other eruptions are signs that it is impure; and it is also a sign that your system is in a low or run-down condition inviting disease. It is a warning, which it is wise to heed.

Ask your druggist for Hood's Sarsaparilla. This old standard tried and true blood medicine relieves that tired feeling. It cleanses the blood, gives new life, new courage, strength and cheerfulness. It makes the rich red blood that will make you feel, look, eat and sleep better.

Be sure to get Hood's, because it is the best. There is no other combination of roots, barks and herbs like it—no real substitute for it—no "just-as-good" medicine.

NOTED AVIATOR OF FRENCH CAPTURED BY THE GERMANS

Roland Garros Is Taken Between Meuse and Moselle Rivers Berlin Reports

BERLIN, via Wireless to Sayville, L. I., April 19.—Lieutenant Roland Garros, one of the chief French aviators, who has been especially active in aerial work on the Meuse front, was captured today according to a statement just made public by the war office. It is stated that he was taken prisoner at a point "between the Meuse and Moselle." Whether his aeroplane was shot down or whether he was captured while on the ground has not yet been made known. Lieutenant Garros is admittedly one of France's greatest aviators. During the early days of the war he was reported to have rammed a Zeppelin and on several occasions has been commended for valorous work with the flying corps. His latest exploit was when he started in pursuit of a German aviator at Langemark a few days ago. He soared above the German machine and opened fire, causing the Taube to collapse at a height of 2,000 feet, the pilot and observer being killed.

HERMAN KEPPEL HAS ASSAILANTS NABBED

Three Men Charged with Assault Following Fracas on North Salem Road

Albert Olson, Andrew Sokolik and John Foley walked out South Salem road yesterday afternoon with three girl companions and two little girls. One of the little girls saw a patch of May flowers on the land of Herman Keppel, dairyman and LaCrosse milk dealer. The party followed the little girl and Mr. Keppel espied them and ordered them off. Then it happened.

According to the three men, Mr. Keppel attacked them when the party did not move off his property fast enough.

In the scuffle which ensued, Mr. Keppel sustained a bruised eye and two riot calls were sent to the police.

Olson, Sokolik and Foley faced charges of assault and battery before Judge John Brindley this afternoon, preferred by Mr. Keppel.

tion compulsory in Wisconsin. At first there was great opposition to the law, although it was soon recognized as one of the greatest laws ever passed.

Judge Brindley came here in 1880, entering into partnership in the law business with J. J. Fruit. For one term he was city attorney. Judge Brindley was candidate for assemblyman from this district on the republican ticket, but was defeated by the democratic candidate. In 1898 he was elected county judge, which position he has retained continuously since.

THRIFTY WOMAN MOVES BY MAIL

SEATTLE, Wash., April 19.—Mrs. Annie Olson is believed to be the first housewife in the United States to "move" by parcel post.

Postoffice clerks were astounded when she appeared at the parcel post window demanding stamps for conveyance of her household goods from this city to Quinault.

"I figured it would be cheaper this way," said Mrs. Olson, handing in a barrel containing her kitchen stove.

Other articles of furniture followed, weighing in all 237 pounds and including kitchen utensils, a rocking chair and a dining room table among other things. They cost her $4.62 in stamps. It cost her $29 the old way, she said.

"Uncle Sam is for me!" exclaimed Mrs. Olson. "I knew it would be economy."

The Ferno tried to rescue the crew of the Vanilla, but was driven off by the submarine, which fired a torpedo at the trawler.

JOHN HOCKING IS LAID TO REST

The funeral of John Hocking, who died last Thursday, was held yesterday afternoon from the Eagles' club rooms. The body lay in state from 11:30 until 2:30, and was viewed by several hundred friends, fellow-workers and members of the various orders of which he was a member.

The impressive memorial service of the Eagles was used and the body, escorted by one hundred members of the Brewery Workers' union, and more than two hundred Eagles, was taken to its final resting place in Oak Grove cemetery, where the Eagles' burial service was held. Many beautiful floral offerings from various fraternal orders and friends covered the casket.

BOY ARRIVES IN BAILEY FAMILY

George J. Bates, 1520 Vine street, is a proud man today. He is responding to the unaccustomed title of grandfather as the result of the birth of a nine pound baby boy to Mr. and Mrs. Roy N. CHURCHES HELP OUT PEACE MOVE HERE WITH SPECIAL DAY

Sunday, May 9, Set Aside as Peace Day and Special Programs Are Prepared

Sunday, May 9, will be "Peace Day" in La Crosse.

La Crosse churches are co-operating with the plan of the International Conference of Women Workers to "Establish Peace Throughout the World," a branch of which is being established in La Crosse. Pastors of churches in towns in the vicinity of La Crosse are also joining the movement.

Practically every minister in the city will speak on peace themes at both morning and evening services, and all services of the day will be given over to peace topics.

Several La Crosse pastors today volunteered to aid in the work of establishing an organization of local people having for its aim to aid the establishment of peace throughout the world. Letters will probably be sent out this week, calling a general mass meeting of La Crosse people.

Mrs. Lillie L. Finch, president of the Twentieth Century club, has given the committee promise that members of the club will uphold the move for an organization here.

LIVERY MAN SAYS WOMAN ROBBED HIM

Florence Carlson to Stand Trial on Serious Accusation by North Side Man

Florence Carlson, 1430 Market street, was arrested today and will be brought into court this afternoon on the charge of stealing $90 from the person of Louis G. Ormson, liveryman, 616 St. Cloud street, while the couple were out for a buggy ride last night.

Ormson met the woman on the street and invited her for a ride. He declared she took $700 from him. She admits taking the "roll" but said the sum was only $90. The money was recovered.

POLICEMEN FACE ACCUSERS TONIGHT

Patrolmen Fred A. Yehle and Thomas McDonough will be "carpeted" tonight by the board of fire and police commissioners. L. C. Colman, secretary of the board, so announced today.

McDonough will face charges brought by John Mulder, North side grocer. McDonough is alleged to have kicked a tramp. Yehle is charged with an offense in connection with the buying of a stolen overcoat which caused the dismissal of John Misna. Yehle did not report the purchase of the overcoat.

WOMAN IS FREED OF THEFT CHARGE

District Attorney Otto M. Schlaach today dismissed the charge against Anna Matalski, charged with taking $150 from William Puls. Puls lost his money while on a pleasure tour of French Island several days ago.

MAGAZINE PUBLISHER DIES

PASADENA, Cal., April 19.—Stuart Hull Moore, publisher of the Ladies' World for the last thirty years, died at his residence here today.

FABRE WINS MARATHON

BOSTON, Mass., April 19.—Edouard Fabre of the Richmond Athletic club, Montreal, won this afternoon's Boston A. marathon from Ashland to Boston.

Sound.

What we call sound has two meanings; subjectively, it is the sense impression on the organ of hearing, objectively, it means the vibratory motion of the air which produces the sensation. The fall of a tree or the explosion of a gun starts successive waves of air vibrations, but if they do not reach some ear, human or animal, the subjective sensation is not experienced. The physical conditions of sound are there, but no brain to interpret it.

DAD, 78, SPANKS HIS SON OF 50

SHEBOYGAN, Wis., April 19.—Hans Schwartz, 50 years old, thought he could lick his dad.

His dad, John Schwartz, aged 78, not only changed Hans' mind, but took Hans across his knee and administered an old-fashioned spanking—just as he did forty years ago.

The Schwartzs live on a small farm in the southern end of the city. The neighbors heard a terrific rumpus yesterday and investigated in time to see Hans receiving his chastisement. They called the sheriff, who arrested the father on a charge of assault and battery. The elder Schwartz pleaded guilty before Justice Trester today and was fined $8. Hans paid his father's fine.

TERRE HAUTAINS DON PRISON GARB AT LEAVENWORTH

Roberts and Fifteen Others Arrive at the Federal Prison This Morning

LEAVENWORTH, Kas., April 19.—Major Don M. Roberts and the fifteen other convicted election conspirators of Terre Haute, Ind., arrived at the federal prison this morning and by noon had been "dressed in" and assigned to temporary duty.

All but one, Joseph Straus, sentenced to one year and one day, arrived on a special car at 10 o'clock. The car was run direct to the prison enclosure, eliminating the confusion which marching the prisoners through the business section would have caused. Straus came alone earlier in the day.

Each prisoner was in charge of a deputy United States marshal, and as soon as the prisoners had been taken from the special car all were marched to the office of the acting deputy warden where they were "dressed in." Then they were taken to the office of the record clerk and their Bertillon measurements taken.

ing never been decided by the supreme court.

Frank was convicted almost solely upon the evidence of James Conley, a negro employed as a sweeper in the pencil factory. He gave widely varied versions of the murder, but on the witness stand stuck unswervingly to a story that Frank knocked the girl victim unconscious, then strangled her and forced him, Conley, to help dispose of the body. The defense's theory was that Conley himself was the murderer and concocted the story to save his own neck by convicting Frank. Conley was later convicted of being an accessory and sentenced to one year in the Georgia penitentiary.

Cornell Man

Frank was born at Paris, Texas, thirty-one years ago. He is a graduate of Cornell university. His mother and relatives now live in Brooklyn, where Frank's father, who was a traveling salesman, removed when Frank was an infant. Frank went to Atlanta about six years ago. Two years afterward he married a young woman, of his own race, and has been prominent in Jewish church and social life, having been president of the Society of B'Nai Brith, the Jewish charitable organization.

Of slim stature, with dark hair and eyes, the latter hidden behind glasses, Frank's appearance is that of a student. Of a refined, cultured family and having a good education, a splendid record as factory superintendent, his friends were shocked when the murder charge was made against him. Prominent and wealthy Jewish citizens have since been aiding in his fight against the gallows. His principal attorney in the court proceedings decided today was Louis Marshall, prominent New York Jewish lawyer.

Crowds at Trial
Frank's trial began July 28, 1913 and ended August 25. The court room was on the ground floor. Windows opened on a public street and an alley. Because of the midsummer heat these windows were opened and crowds congregated at every vantage point.

It is admitted in the official court records that there great confusion during the trial. The court room was jammed. The windows, doors, streets and alleys were filled with spectators. Aisles were crowded. The jury box itself was hemmed in by densely packed humanity. Time and again the crowds applauded and stamped their feet when a point was made against Frank. They jeered his lawyers. Hisses and storms of demonstration frequently swept the court room and the crowds outside. The trial judge made frequently efforts to control the crowd. He threatened repeatedly to clear the court room, but the demonstrations continued.

Postpone Verdict

Accounts of the trial in the newspapers worked the public into a frenzy of excitement. At its conclusion on Saturday, August 25, 1913 just before the jury retired, Judge L. S. Roan, who presided, held a consultation on the bench, in the presence of the jury, with the Atlanta chief of police and the colonel of the Fifth Regiment of state militia regarding measures for protecting Frank. He also called the state's attorney and two of Frank's lawyers into a room and advised that neither Frank nor his counsel be present when the jury returned its verdict.

Atlanta newspaper editors joined in a petition that day also to Judge Roan to adjourn the case over until the following Monday because of the danger of a public disturbance, particularly if Frank was freed. Talk of lynching was prevalent.

Acting on the suggestion of the editors, receipt of the verdict was postponed until Monday. Neither Frank nor any of his lawyers were present when the jury was brought in. Tumultuous scenes followed. The demonstration inside the court room was so great that Judge Roan ordered it cleared. The crowd massed around the doors and windows. Arrangements for a signal were made. As the word "guilty" was flashed out, the crowd, estimated at many hundreds, set up a roar. The noise was so deafening that "polling" of the jury was made difficult. The judge could hardly hear each juror's answer, although only ten feet distant.

VILLA CRUSHINGLY DEFEATED PEOPLES TELL WASHINGTON

Fearful However that Break Between Carranza and Obregon Will Keep Two Factions in Field

WASHINGTON, April 19.—State department indications multiplied today that Villa had been crushing defeated. It was feared, however, that Obregon would break with Carranza next, leaving two factions still in the field.

The state department was advised today that Alfred Tappan, American, sentenced to death in Yucatan on a charge of bomb making would be tried under a law carrying no death penalty. It was stated also that Leonard Worcester, an American held by Villistas at Chihuahua had been released.

WASHINGTON, April 19.—The Daughters of the American Revolution opened their 24th annual convention in Continental Memorial hall today. Mrs. William Cummings Story, president-general presiding. President Wilson was due to speak this afternoon. Mrs. George Thompson, Independence, Kan., leads the Story opposition. Mrs. Story seeks another term. Already the two leaders have "counted noses" and both appear confident.

FIND NO SIGN OF JAPS' NAVAL BASE

WASHINGTON, April 19.—Official Washington breathed easier today, following Admiral Howland's report that salvage work alone was being done by the Japanese at Turtle Bay, Lower California; that there was no indication of a plan for a Japanese base.

Howard, who got his information from Commander Irwin of the cruiser New Orleans, implied that the Japanese war vessels, said to have been lying in Turtle Bay, had withdrawn, the report saying "the other vessels present (in addition to the cruiser Asama, which is acknowledged to be a repair ship and two others."

Big CLEAN-UP Program is Opened and Many Boost City Beautiful

A thousand American cities and towns have taken up the National Paint Up and Clean Up campaign. La Crosse, through the activity of the Twentieth Century club and the Boy Scouts, has joined the ranks.

That puts it squarely up to you, Mr. and Mrs. Citizen. The advertisers on this page, and elsewhere in this paper are pointing out the way. Don't wait another minute. Get busy with broom, shovel, rake and paint-brush. It is not the purpose of this article to go into detail as to the right things to do. Your own judgment must tell you that.

Get your "weather eye" peeled for defects. And when you find them, GO TO IT. Don't be satisfied with doing just the things that are glaringly necessary. Do it all, do it right, and do it right now. Don't be satisfied with merely obeying the law. Go as much farther as you can, and if you do that, you'll fix your status as a good citizen.

Your neighbors are going to do their share—some of them have already done it. Do your share to make your neighborhood a beauty spot. Let's make La Crosse a "Spotless Town."

Come on, now—everybody—GO TO IT.

GALESVILLE FAIR DATES FIXED FOR AUGUST 24, 25, 26.

With Large Balance on Hand Directors of Galesville Fair Association Plan for Big Time

GALESVILLE, Wis., April 19.—Wednesday evening the annual meeting of the Trempealeau County Agricultural society was held in the council room of the city hall. Arrangements were made for the fifty-seventh annual fair.

Emil Francar was elected president to succeed Gerald O. Arnold. Benjamin W. Davis was re-elected secretary, and J. A. Kellman, treasurer. The report of the treasurer showed a balance of $1,032.82 on hand. The fair this year will be held August 24, 25 and 26.

Mail Contract Let.
Peter T. Odegaard of Ada, Minn., was given the contract for carrying the mail between Galesville and Elrick commencing July 1.

Place Trout in Stream.
Lovers of the fishing rod report some success in catching trout. Fifty thousand trout fry were received at Galesville last Monday for the Galesville-Elrick Rod and Gun club and distributed in the streams of the vicinity.

Salvation Army at Galesville.
Members of the Salvation Army from Winona, Minn., will take possession of Galesville April 23. They will hold meetings Saturday at the opera house.

Students Give Drama.
The high school students presented a drama entitled "On the Little Big Horn" to a large house Friday evening for the benefit of the Athletic association, under the direction of Miss Louise Diver, one of the teachers.

Local and Personal.
G. D. Arnold of the East Side farm sold seven head of short horn cattle last week that brought him $1,275. The sale was made to Carlson Brothers, of Erskine, Minn.

Pastor Myhre preached his first sermon in Galesville last Monday evening to a large congregation.

The marriage of Kathryn Stelflug to Merton Thompson took place at Winona April 14. Also on same date and place Luella Berger and Ludwig Becker, both of Galesville, were married.

JOHN CUDAHY ILL

Powerful Stuff.

A young man noticed that the case of his watch seemed to be brass, and he hastened to the jeweler from whom he had bought the watch to demand a new case because he was protected by a twenty year guarantee.

The jeweler looked at the case, brushed it a little, then replied: "Are you taking any medicine containing iron? If you are the iron probably has come out with perspiration and has tarnished the case."

The young man remembered he was taking medicine containing iron. With a few minutes' work the watch case was polished until it looked like new.—Indianapolis News.

Flush Your Blood Get it Cleansed

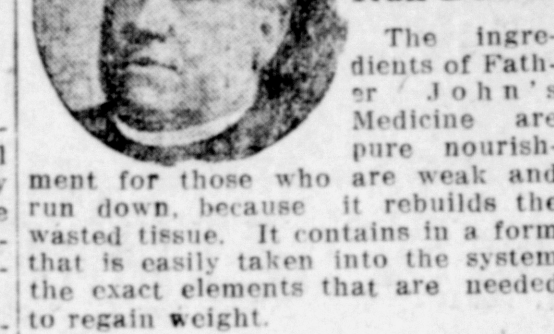

Remarkable Remedy That Works All Through Your Body.

When you put a tablespoonful of S. S. S. into your stomach it gets straight into your blood. In less than five minutes it has become a wave of restorative influence wherever the blood has circulated. Does this read like magic? But it is absolutely true. Those powerful digestive juices in the stomach can not change the medicinal effect of S. S. S. The liver can not burn it. The lungs, skin and kidneys excrete it only after S. S. S. has set in motion millions of cells and nerves to throw off the countless germs that have infested every part of the body. And as S. S. S. continues to battle those troublesome pests that gather in the form of pimples, boils, eczema, acne, catarrh, rheumatism and other so-called blood disorders, it rouses into action a myriad of strange but well-understood corpuscles called leucocytes that actually devour or change or convert disease germs so they are readily and quickly cast out of the body. It is probably the best appreciated blood medicine known. You will find S. S. S. on sale in nearly every drug store in the U. S. Get a bottle today. And if your case is peculiar, write to the Medical Department, The Swift Specific Co., 105 Swift Bldg., Atlanta, Ga. It is conducted by a noted physician.

TURN HAIR DARK WITH SAGE TEA

If Mixed with Sulphur It Darkens so Naturally Nobody Can Tell.

The old-time mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur for darkening gray, streaked and faded hair is grandmother's treatment, and folks are again using it to keep their hair a good, even color, which is quite sensible, as we are living in an age when a youthful appearance is of the greatest advantage.

Nowadays, though, we don't have the troublesome task of gathering the sage and mussy mixing at home. All drug stores sell the ready-to-use product called "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound" for about 50 cents a bottle. It is very popular because nobody can discover it has been applied. Simply moisten your comb or a soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, but what delects the ladies with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur is that, besides beautifully darkening the hair after a few applications, it also produces that soft lustre and appearance of abundance which is so attractive; besides, presents dandruff, itching scalp and falling hair.

"Whys" of Moves in European War

By J. W. T. MASON
NEW YORK, April 19.—11 a. m.—That the eastern military situation is very unsatisfactory to the Russians seems evident from the open and sudden efforts of the Grand Duke Nicholas and M. Sazonoff to persuade Italy to enter the war. Hitherto, whatever pressure was brought to bear on Italy by the allies, has been secretly applied. All public references to Italy have been guardedly worded and have carefully avoided any semblance of pressure. This attitude has been due first to a recognition of the fact that Italy's self-interest alone is dictating the policy of King Victor's government, and secondly, to a belief that the allies' cause would not be strengthened by too openly expressed desires for Italy's help.

Russia, however, has adopted a new attitude and is endeavoring to tempt Italy in just such clumsy fashion which the western allies consistently have sought to avoid. Russian commander in chief has telegraphed to the novelist Amphitatroff that Italian participation in the war is the only course that will ensure the realization of Italian ideals. The Russian foreign minister has wired the novelist also that Russia will give complete support to the realization of Italian ideals.

The two messages were not written simply as friendly responses to a request from a novelist for expressions of opinion. They are in reality state documents and they unquestionably indicate fear on the part of the Slavs that Italy will remain neutral to the end of the war. The Russians have counted heavily on an Italian declaration of war against Austria. Italy's intervention would compel a redistribution of the Austrian forces and the Slavs doubtless have been expecting that the Carpathian defenses would be weakened by Austria through the necessity for guarding the Italian frontier. The failure of the present Carpathian campaign, and a growing fear that Italy might settle her difficulties with Austria by diplomacy, both seem to have produced a shock at Petrograd. Nervousness and impatience apparently have resulted, causing Russia's most distinguished military and state craft leaders to make public appeals to Italy to enter the war.

There can be no doubt but that the message of the Grand Duke Nicholas and M. Sazonoff are a mistake. The only possible influence they can have on Italy is to formulate a suspicion that the Russians are abandoning hope of their ability to end the war victoriously without assistance.

The Italians have no desire to assist the Slavs. Italy wishes only to further her own interests. In fact, one of Italy's grievances is that, thanks to Austrian encouragement, Slav influences are dominating Italians in Istria. An appeal, therefore, from Russia for Italian help will fall on deaf ears at Rome. The Italians will count the cost of intervention somewhat more rigorously as the result of Petrograd's urgings, and that is all. Russia had been better advised to follow the lead of France and England, and make no public plea for Italy's favor.

FATHER'S NAME IS FORGED TO CHECK

Ted Stout, Cashton, Pleads Guilty and Is Bound to Circuit Court; Sign Painter Runs Amuck

SPARTA, Wis., April 19.—(Special.)—Ted Stout of Cashton was brought up before Judge Richards' court Saturday charged with having forged his father's name to a note for about forty-five dollars. Stout was bound over to the circuit court. He will go before Judge Higbee of La Crosse some time this week, and plead guilty to the charge.

Two attempts to arrest Herbert Sanford, well known sign painter, charged with the use of profane and abusive language, proved unsuccessful Saturday night. Saturday afternoon Mrs. Frank Flood swore out a complaint against Sanford, and after supper Officers George King and Amos Mann went to Herbert's house on Wisconsin street to make the arrest.

Sanford was prepared for them and when they entered his house, he stepped up to them with a big revolver, informing them that if they didn't "beat it" he would shoot. Mr. King and Mann were unprepared for any resistance and went back to headquarters for some guns and Sheriff Ross. But when the party returned, Sanford himself had "beat it" and could not be found.

Sanford, who is reputed to be part Indian, is a fellow of enormous build and stature, is about six feet three inches in height, and is a powerful man. According to neighbors he had been drinking to excess for three or four days. It is thought he went to La Crosse and the police authorities there have been notified.

WATCHING THE SCOREBOARD

BY HAL SHERIDAN
(Written for the United Press.)

Those hopeful individuals who had temerity enough a week ago to hope that T. Raymond Cobb had gone back, look at this: A triple and a double scoring three runs, and saved the Tigers a licking by a perfect throw from center to the plate in the eighth.

Jim Gilmore and Vic Huerta, the well-known trouble makers and raiders, saw the Newark Federals get a tasty trimming at the hands of Otto Knabe's Oysters.

Young Mr. Chapman, shot stopper for the Indians, again crowded into the column with three blows.

Long Dave Davenport and Rankin Johnson put up a slashing chucking duel, each allowing three hits, but the Sloop-Feds won, three to one.

Horace P. Fisher, the Cubs' rookie shortstop, got three of the Cubs seven hits and beat the Pirates in the tenth, 2 to 1.

Mike Glenn worked in mid-season form in the Reds-Cards game and Herzog's Colts swiped seven bases.

Over 15,000 fans paid to see the Cubs-Pirates battle; over 20,000 saw Ty Cobb trim the Sox at Detroit. Looks like the old game was a pretty lively corpse yesterday.

LIFE'S BATTLE.

I am sorry for the man, for the woman, who does not know that life is a battle, who does not know what price of toil and sacrifice is paid for everything that we use or enjoy. Not to know this, not to be bearing one's share of the world's task, is a kind of cowardice and treachery.—Theodore C. Williams.

SYRUP OF FIGS FOR CROSS, SICK FEVERISH CHILD

If little stomach is sour, liver torpid or bowels clogged.

Mothers can rest easy after giving "California Syrup of Figs," because in a few hours all the clogged-up waste, sour bile and fermenting food simply moves out of the bowels, and you have a well, playful child again. The children simply will not take the time from play to empty their bowels, and they become tightly packed, liver gets sluggish and stomach disordered.

When cross, feverish, restless, set if tongue is coated, then give this delicious "fruit laxative." Children love it, and it can not cause injury. No difference what all your little one—if full of cold, or a sore throat, diarrhoea, stomachache, bad breath, remember, a gentle "inside cleansing" should always be the first treatment given. Full directions for babies, children of all ages and grown-ups are printed on each bottle.

Beware of counterfeit fig syrup. Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs." It is then look carefully and see that it is made by the "California Fig Syrup Company." We make no smaller size. Hand back with contempt any other fig syrup.

Foreign Markets

New York Stocks

NEW YORK, April 19.—The standard railroad and industrial stocks assumed the lead in a strong market today, ten of these shares selling at new high levels.

Steel opened at 60 1/4 to 60, on 7,500 shares while Reading, Union Pacific, Southern Pacific, New York Central, Northern Pacific, St. Paul, Central Leather, Amalgamated Copper, all touched new high prices, showing gains of from one to three points.

NEW YORK, April 19.—Trading was unusually heavy at the opening of the stock market today and prices generally were up. One thousand shares of Union Pacific sold at 132; and another thousand sold at 132 1/2, a gain of 1/4 and 1/2.

11 a. m.—Union Pacific continued to be one of the active stocks and the price advanced to 133 1/4, a gain of 1/4. All other leaders showed strength.

Noon.—There was a great deal of switching from industrials to railroad stocks, but despite the heavy selling to which the former were subjected prices held up well.

Early afternoon trading showed a little irregularity, but there was no decided reaction from the bullish aspect that has prevailed.

The market closed strong. Another record day was tallied when the final count showed 1,480,145 shares had changed hands.

ERICKSON IS HIGH AMATEUR AT SHOOT

Breaks 45 Out of 50 in La Crosse Gun Club Meet; Mitchell Has Perfect Score

High amateur honors yesterday went to Walter Erickson in the weekly shoot of the La Crosse Gun club when he outshot a field of eight other gunners yesterday morning at the North side range. He broke 45 out of fifty targets, putting him first behind C. C. Mitchell, professional, who had a good day at the traps, hitting all his birds.

The scores:

	Shot at	Broke
C. C. Mitchell	50	50
Walter Erickson	50	45
F. R. Schwalbe, Jr.	50	43
W. A. Wager	50	43
A. J. Roberge	50	42

CARDINAL RUNNERS SET RELAY RECORD

Run Four-mile Event at Drake in Record Time of 18:04 2-5, Beating Out Michigan

DES MOINES, Iowa, April 19.—In a spectacular finish, Wisconsin runners beat Michigan's team to the four mile university trophy in the sixth annual Drake relay meet here Saturday afternoon and hung up a new record of 18:04 2-5, against Northwestern university's record of 18:35 2-5 in 1912.

Chicago easily landed the half mile, and incidentally clipped a second off its own record of last year. Chicago was disqualified in the one mile, the race going to Missouri in another new record time of 3:23 1-3. Purdue took the two mile event.

A. A. BENTLEY OPENS INITIAL SHOOT OF PIONEER GUN CLUB

Mayor-elect Fires First Gun at Opening Event of the New Trap Slub

Schlutter High Amateur
Novice Makes Good Score in First Appearance at a Trap Shooting Event

Mayor-elect A. A. Bentley yesterday afternoon fired the first shot in the opening shoot of the newly organized Pioneer Gun club at the meet held at the West avenue range. Bentley broke thirteen targets of twenty-five shot at.

Clear skies and a stiff westerly wind greeted the gunners in their first appearance at the range. In view of the thirty-mile gale that swept the range, the scores made are considered remarkable. The gusts of wind carried the birds in the most puzzling of flights.

Present at the meet were several members of the La Crosse Gun club besides five representatives of the Mormon Coulee Trap club. Schlutter Shoots Well
Charles Schlutter, in his first appearance at a trap event, led the field of thirty-nine gunners, breaking 22 of the 25 targets thrown. His showing was the most remarkable ever made by a novice on a La Crosse range. L. P. Markle, captain of the Mormon Coulee club, was second among the amateurs with a score of 21.

C. C. Mitchell, professional, annexed a perfect score. Twenty-five targets were thrown for each contestant.

KEEP URIC ACID OUT OF JOINTS

Tells Rheumatism Sufferers to Eat Less Meat and Take Salts.

Rheumatism is easier to avoid than to cure, states a well-known authority. We are advised to gress warmly; keep the feet dry; avoid exposure; eat less meat, but drink plenty of good water.

Rheumatism is a direct result of eating too much meat and other rich foods that produce uric acid which is absorbed into the blood. It is the function of the kidneys to filter it out in the urine; the pores of the skin are also a means of freeing the blood of this impurity. In damp and chilly cold weather the skin pores are closed thus forcing the kidneys to do double work, they become weak and sluggish and fail to eliminate the uric acid which keeps accumulating and circulating through the system, eventually settling in the joints and muscles causing stiffness, soreness and pain called rheumatism.

At the first twinge of rheumatism get from any pharmacy about four ounces of Jad Salts; put a tablespoonful in a glass of water and drink before breakfast each morning for a week. This is said to eliminate uric acid by stimulating the kidneys to normal action, thus ridding the blood of these impurities.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, harmless and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia and is used with excellent results by thousands of folks who are subject to rheumatism. Here you have a pleasant, effervescent lithia-water drink which helps overcome uric acid and is beneficial to your kidneys as well. For sale by Chas. Beyschlag, druggist, 563 Main St.

PRACTICE ON WEEK DAYS ON TAP FOR LA CROSSE TEAMS

Athletes and Nelsons to Be Out Evenings with Next Sunday's Game in View

Practices in preparation for the first game of the season Sunday with the Nelsons will be held Tuesday and Friday nights at the high school by athletes, according to the statement made by Manager William Krause today following the practice held yesterday at the normal school. Weeding of the team will be made at the sessions. Roy Falk, star outfielder of the team, will go to Viroqua for the summer. He has started in the automobile business.

At the Copeland park yesterday, the Nelsons and Trainmen worked out yesterday. Practically all the first string men of the Nelsons were on deck for the workout. Several practice sessions will be held during the week.

ARRANGE BASEBALL FOR SPRING SEASON

Class baseball teams are nearly all organized at the high school in preparation for the interclass baseball championship series which will be conducted at the high school this spring in place of the usual varsity baseball. A schedule of games will be arranged as soon as the last team has organized and elected its captain and is ready for work. Practices are already being held daily by the teams already in the field.

The championship of the league will be determined on the percentage basis so that no unfair elimination will probably play twelve games under the present arrangements.
